

Veronica Robleto, Director of the Rural Women's Health Project in Gainesville, discussed the organization's mission to break down barriers for farm workers and immigrant communities, focusing on health justice and language accessibility. She highlighted their work on climate justice, particularly addressing extreme heat's impact on outdoor workers, through initiatives like the "buddy system" and the creation of educational materials. Veronica emphasized the organization's commitment to supporting the entire immigrant community regardless of status and called for donations to continue their work. A poster for a food basket donation drive. The background is a rustic wooden table with various food items: a whole roasted chicken on a blue plate, a bowl of mixed vegetables, a bowl of rice and beans, a cornucopia basket, and various fresh vegetables like carrots, corn, and pumpkins. A red and white checkered cloth is also visible.

We are gathering food baskets for farmworkers and other essential workers this year as part of our Cornucopia of Thanks. We are hoping for full bag donations to ease the process.

Cornucopia Baskets (bags) consist of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 2 lb. bags of beans • 5 lb. bags of rice 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 1 qt. bottles of cooking oil • Cans of tuna, salmon, or ham • Peanut Butter • Maseca (corn flour) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Bottles of 100% juice • Box/can of cookies • Large boxes or jars of dried fruit and/or nuts • 2 lb. bags of ground coffee or hot chocolate
